Notes for JOSEPH ELLIS TAYLOR:
[Taylor.ftw]

[johnson.FTW]

Joe Taylor was never able to complete high school because it was necessary for him to go to work to help support the family. His father, Raymond Lee Taylor, took his own life in 1939. Joe served his country in World War II, and was seriously wounded in the fighting in Italy. He was in the hospital for many months while the doctors worked to save his life and his legs. He did recover but he still has schrapnell in his legs which gives him severe cramps but you never hear him complain. Considering his circumstances, many people would have lost hope. He has worked hard all his life and has given his daughters a good life. If we needed something I never heard him say "No," and he continues to be there when we need him.

Joe worked at Winter Garden, now called Pictsweet, most of his life. He did receive some training at the Moore School of Technology in Memphis in electrical work. Even though he has been retired for several years, and has had two heart attacks, he and Lou continue to work just as hard as ever at home and in the garden. He has several rental houses that he maintains in addition to being on call for his four daughters and seven grandchildren.
